The Emerson House,
Concord, Mass.

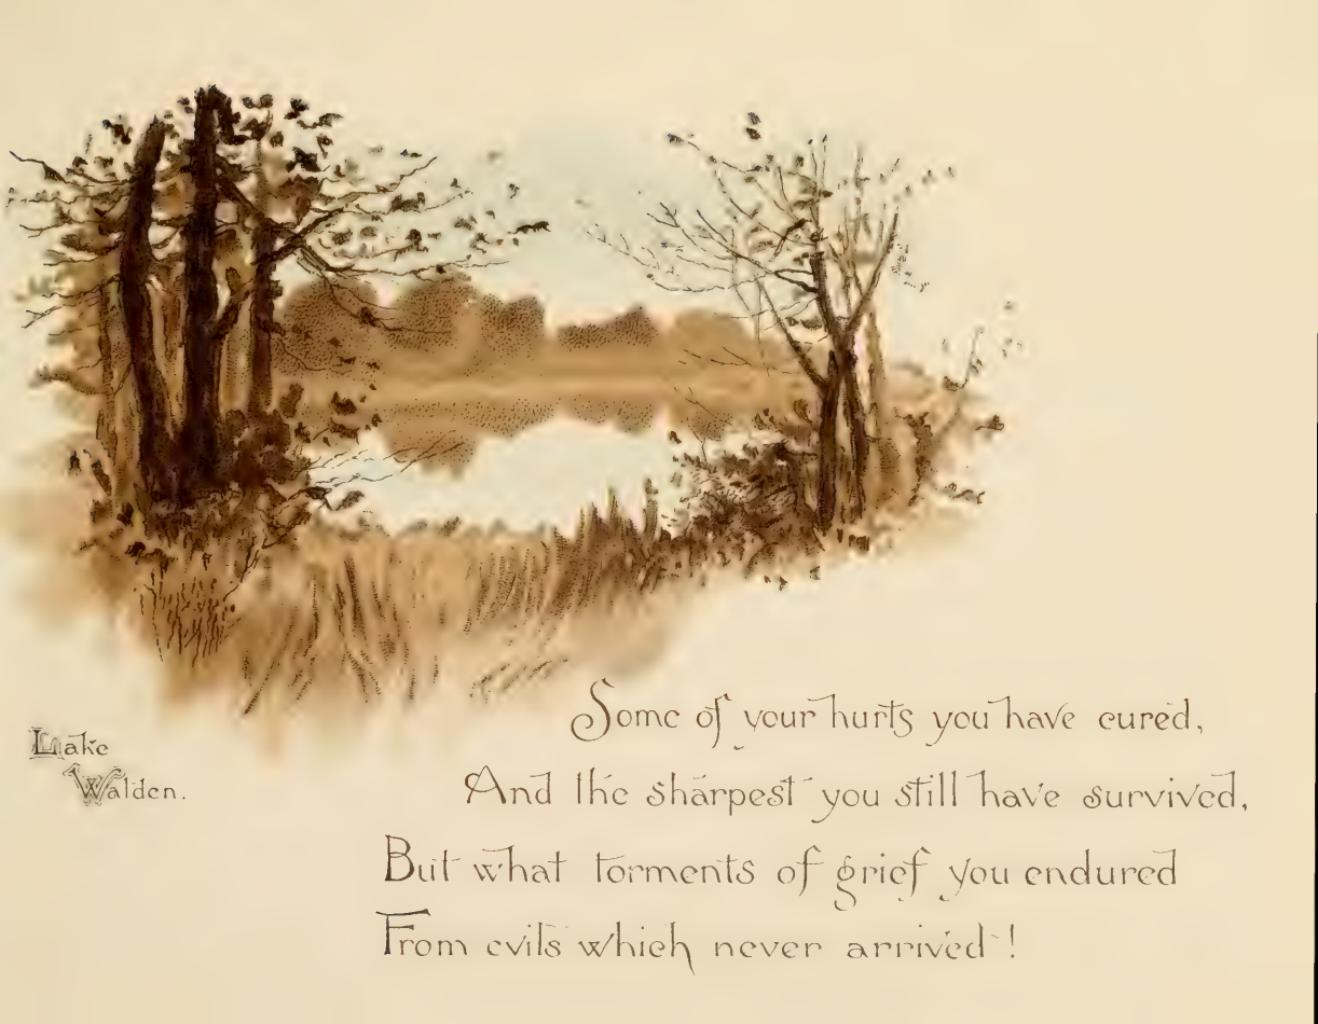

Whoever fights,
whoever falls,
Justice conquers
evermore,
Justice after as before,—
And he who battles
on her side,
God, though he were ten times slain,
Crowns him Victor glorified,—
Victor over death and pain,
Forever.

R.W.EMERSON.

The Thoreau
House,
Concord, Mass.

Lake
Walden.

Some of your hurts you have cured,
And the sharpest you still have survived,
But what torments of grief you endured
From evils which never arrived!

The winding Concord gleamed below,
Pouring as wide a flood
As when my brothers, long ago,
Came with me to the wood.

R.W.EMERSON.

Bit of
the Concord River.

To clothe the fiery thought
In simple words succeeds,
For still the craft of genius is
To mask a king in weeds.

North Bridge, Concord.

So nigh is grandeur to our dust,
So near is God to man,
When Duty whispers low, Thou must,
The youth replies, I can.

Emerson's Library.

Shines the past age, the next with hope is seen.
To-day slinks poorly off unmarked between;
Future or Past no richer secret holds,
O friendless Present! than thy bosom holds.
